Let's face it: Now might not be the best economic time for a second home.

One solution? Have plenty of space for outdoor entertaining while still living in the city.

This home at 88 Laight St. has 1,150 square feet of outdoor space with 360-degree unobstructed views.

"It's hard to believe how much light there is — and 17-foot ceilings with these incredible views," said Town's Dana Power, who shares the listing with Bryan Graybill. "It doesn't feel like a typical home in New York."

The owner is an Italian filmmaker, and Graybill said the cobblestone street and brick lofts give the four-block Laight St. a romantic, movie-set vibe.

The two-bedroom loft is listed for $4.79 million.
